| Do you spend more time thinking about the future or the past? Why?

Yes I'm...Before I started blogging I used to think a lot about my future and worried a lot... And...now being a blogger especially when I write about my personal journal I wanted to recollect all my memoirs and this made me less worried about my future...The thing about both the future and the past is balanced depending on the situation...

I think there is no present when we focus on past and future 🧑... There is no wrong thinking about the past and future...

"Present is the prequel of the past and sequel of the future"...
